A black and white photograph of a lake at night. A bright moon is visible in the sky, and its light reflects as a shimmering path down the center of the water. The horizon is dark with some distant land and a few small boats. In the foreground, there are some reeds or grasses on the right side.

PROLOGUE

We are the actors of a great drama, the drama of life. As Leon de Montenaeken said, "Life is but a play." Your Centralian this year presents a drama of school life.

A play is immortal, in that it will live as long as it is read. In the same manner will this drama of your school life be presented again and again each time you turn the pages of this book.

Here are brought to you the gay and joyous events of this year. Each happy moment can be relived; the play will be presented before your eyes. Our school is the scene and you are among the actors. Now sit back and enjoy yourself as the curtain rises on an exciting drama of your school life.

Proudly and humbly we, the Class of 1958, dedicate this eleventh edition of the Centralian to
MILTON C. HARP

Geniality, wittiness and generosity plus his fine teaching ability serve as an incentive and stimulus for those who are in his classes. He is a great favorite at Southwestern, loved and admired by students and faculty alike.

Mr. Harp is head of the Mathematics Department, carries a full teaching load, and is very active in student affairs. He is one of the advisers for the Junior class, sponsor for the Student Council and the Chess Club. For outside activities he coaches a junior high school football team, teaches an evening mathematics class at Jamestown Community College, and is head of training officers of the Jamestown Naval Reserve.

He and his wife Ruby, are active in church and community affairs, and with their four children, Daniel, Milton, Joann and Timothy form a happy unit in our midst.

As we, the graduating class of 1958, entered Southwestern in the fall, we had much to anticipate during this, our senior year. We started the year off by electing to office four very capable leaders. Charles Trowbridge served his second term as our president, with David Till as his assistant. Maxine Gardner kept the minutes for all our meetings, and Marcia Miller handled the funds. Maxine Gardner, Janet Jones, and Mary Lawson were our representatives to the student council chosen this year, with Paul Romer, Patrick Davis, Robert Swanson, and Roy Christy, last year's representatives, remaining on the council to assist Mr. Harp, the advisor. Elected to the assembly committee were Marcia Warlow and Nancy Boberg.

Following the examples of the classes who have gone before us, we sold programs, and operated the refreshment stand at Packard Field during the football season. Those of us who worked at the stand enjoyed it very much, and the stand proved to be a successful enterprise. During the basketball season, we sponsored several dances after the games.

The senior play, "Onions in the Stew," a comedy in three acts, was a smash hit. Many of the class were in the cast and others served on various committees. We wish to thank Mrs. Kistler for her fine job of directing the play.

One of the most enjoyable events this year was the semi-formal prom, "Moulin Rouge," which we presented in honor of the juniors on February 15. We all had a great time, not only at the dance, but also by serving on the decoration and refreshment committees, and by selecting a king and queen. In turn, the juniors presented us with a formal prom in June and we all enjoyed ourselves. We would like to thank them for their efforts put forth in order to create wonderful memories for us.

We underwrote the operetta, "Oklahoma." It ran for two nights and was a great success. Nearly everyone in the school took part in the production, either by ushering, making scenery, taking various parts on the stage, or serving on committees.

Our last month of school was a very busy one; we were exchanging personal cards and making last-minute preparations for graduation. At the senior class picnic we all had a wonderful time, one we will never forget. We went swimming, played tennis, and just enjoyed a beautiful day.

We wish to thank our advisors, Mr. Restivo, Mrs. Chase, and Mr. Hanson, who so unselfishly contributed their time and efforts to make this, our senior year at Southwestern a success.

Steps To Stardom

"ONIONS IN THE STEW"

Reflecting on the success of their play last year, the seniors again put on a three-act comedy, "Onions in the Stew." The cast was chosen, the acts were blocked out, and the performance was put on three weeks later.

The setting was an old house on an island in Puget Sound. The MacDonald family, consisting of the mother and father and two teenaged daughters, just moved into their new home and the play told of their trials and tribulations. The water pipes banged, they were snowed in for two weeks, their plumbing didn't work and they either had to walk along the beach or through the woods because they had no road.

The older daughter, Ann, had her own problems, also. She hated the island because she had to leave her boy friend in Seattle. The younger daughter, Joan, hated the island, too, because she wanted to be a singer and felt that she had no future on the island.

The play was written by Betty MacDonald who actually lived these experiences. Therefore the play seemed more realistic.

All in all it was a very successful performance and it was enjoyed by adults and students alike.

At the right is our student from Germany, Gerhard Keuning, with his American father, Mr. Robert Bootey.

It has been an enjoyable, educational experience to be with Gerhard in his classes, and recreation. It will be interesting to go on through the years having had such an intimate, personal acquaintance with a classmate from another country.

Below is Gerhard's message to his friends and associates.

To my American friends,

I'm glad to have this chance to say a few words to all of you, who have been such wonderful fellow students for me. Everybody was kind in his own way; also everybody was kind in the American way, which always meant companionship and friendship.

Following "remarks" are also dedicated to all of my American teachers, who really proved to be much friendlier and more understanding than German teachers usually are.

To all people I became acquainted with in the United States, especially to my generous American hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Bootey and family, to all of my teachers, and to all of my fellow students, I'd like to say "thank you." They made this wonderful year of experience enjoyable and unforgettable for me.

Although I won't get any school credit in Germany for my studies in the United States, this year gave me far more experience than any regular school year could bring about in Germany.

I am enthusiastic about America and the American people. The greatest pleasure I enjoyed in the United States was the exciting feeling to have friends of different nationalities and to be able to understand them. I experienced how easy it actually is to get along with and to like each other, regardless of different languages, customs, opinions, and religions. The satisfying feeling of being friendly with people from other countries is something that I wish you all could enjoy sometime in your life because it gives so much and it takes so little.

I'll be ever grateful to the American Field Service and its representatives all around the world who, as volunteers, make their tremendous program possible. The number of exchange students every year goes already into the thousands and it'll rise further in the future.

Since you showed me so many things about American life, I'd like to tell you a little bit about my life back in the "old Germany." My hometown is Dortmund, an industrial city ninety miles north-east of famous Cologne. There are 650,000 people living in Dortmund and only about 30,000 cars. That amounts to about twenty-one persons for every car. Just compare these figures with the statistics of Buffalo where there is a car for every three persons. That shows you that the United States is really the "country of cars."

You might wonder how we get our transportation without enough cars. There are street trains going to every part of Dortmund and there is also a very convenient bus system. In addition to that most of the younger people ride bicycles which are much more popular in Germany than in the United States.

I go always with a bicycle to school except in bad weather and so do most of my friends. With friends I mean the boys in our school; I wouldn't possibly mean girls, because there aren't any girls in our school. In other words: boys and girls are going to separate high schools in Germany. This law is supposed to raise the learning ability of both boys and girls.

Book studies are most important in our schools and students in Germany have to put more time into their assignments than the American student usually does. We are pushed a little more because it isn't very hard for a teacher in Germany to kick a lazy or inefficient student out of high school. Another force is that if a student fails two or three subjects out of a variety of ten to twelve, the student has to repeat the whole year with all courses. Repetition of the same year is only allowed once. We can't choose our subjects; we have to take what is kindly offered. That seems to be rather hard and it is really so, because only around fifteen percent of all students who started high school are able to graduate. The other eighty-five per cent gets gradually kicked out or leaves school during the nine years of high school.

Still and all, I can say that we get our recreation time too. Only that it isn't enough time to have a job besides school and to enjoy many parties and dancing.

The German teenagers spend their time quite similar to American entertainment. They go dancing, have parties, collect records, go to movies and so on. A special group of teenagers also admired Elvis Presley for a certain time. A remarkable difference is that the young people in Germany go to theatres for stage plays more often than the people do in the United States.

Sports in Germany are a little bit different. The most popular sport in Germany is soccer, which is really a national sport. The people in Germany usually don't like American football at all, because they think that it is a very rough and dirty sport. American football is rough all right but these rugged football players can stand that with their protective equipment. So I think football is only half as dangerous and rough as it looks to most people in Germany when they see it in the movies.

American football is one example of many things which establish an unfavorable reputation of the United States in Germany. Cowboy movies, Rock 'n Roll, American soldiers, and women wrestling are other examples which contribute to the wrong impression of America. Whenever, there are reports in our newspapers about such events the people in Germany think that those happenings are typical for America because the German people don't get to know anything else.

However there are many good incidents which offset those customs, which seem so crazy to German people.

Therefore I promise you to talk to all of my friends and to all people I know in Germany about the true picture of American life, which I love so much and which I'll never forget.

Don't forget to come to Dortmund when you are travelling in Germany.

Scene-Moulin Rouge

Seniors presented their annual Prom in honor of the Junior Class. Some two hundred guests enjoyed the French motif and the danceable music of Stew Snyder and his orchestra. The gym was decorated as a French Cafe, centered with a sparkling fountain.

King and Queen of the evening were Robert Lange and Marilyn Danielson.

Juniors Understudy Stars

Among the Junior Class's first duties was to elect officers. The president was James Johnson; the vice-president, Gordon Puls; the secretary, Shirley Hans; and the treasurer, Robert Lange. They proved to be very capable leaders.

The money-making projects included the sponsoring of the dance after the Falconer basketball game, a smorgasbord dinner and the showing of two movies. The movies shown were "Fuller Brush Girl" with Lucille Ball and "Kill the Umpire" with William Bendix.

The Junior Prom, "Moulin Rouge," given by the Seniors, was held February 15. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the king, Bob Lange, and the queen, Marilyn Danielson.

The attendants were Nancy Eggleston, Pat Tremaine, Judy Sparling, Don Rhoda, Alan Stranigan, and James Johnson. The king and queen then led the dancers in the grand march.

The Senior Prom was given by the juniors in June and everyone enjoyed themselves immensely.

The class dues this year were set at two dollars and were paid by the first week of December.

The biggest thrill of the year as every year was the ordering and receiving of class rings. They proved to be very satisfactory to all juniors.

The class advisors this year were Mr. Harp, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Bartoo, Mr. Jones, and Mr. Fedrico.

Sophomores-Walk-Ons

Crossing the corridors from the Junior High to the Senior High wing in Southwestern put new responsibilities on the class of 1960. We are happy to report we have met the challenge successfully.

Many of us have enjoyed participating in such activities as varsity chorus, band, dramatic club, Future Teachers, Future Nurses, Gym Club and "S" Club. Many of us played on Junior Varsity teams such as basketball, football, and baseball, and did fairly well too!

In our treasury we had enough money, carried over from last year, to pay our debts as Sophomores. But we wanted to have something in our treasury to enter our Junior year with so we planned a few projects. Among our planned projects was a dinner-dance held on Thursday, April 25, 1958.

We have learned to swallow manfully the large doses of homework assigned nightly, and can do without the necessary hours of sleep as well as any upper-classman. We eagerly anticipate our next year of activities when we can contribute more to the ever-growing renown of Southwestern Central.

Stand-Ins-Freshmen

This was a good year for the Freshman Class. Each homeroom elected a President and a Treasurer. At a meeting with Mr. Scarry, Fred Lawson was elected President and Terry Naetzker was elected Treasurer for the entire class. The homeroom officers were retained as a council.

Members of the class worked energetically on a money-raising project.

The Freshman football and basketball teams ended their seasons with excellent records. The football team held the Chadakoin Valley League Title; this was the first time a Southwestern Junior High team won this title.

Novices On Stage

The new Southwestern students of the seventh grade carried on many projects to raise money. Mrs. Deuink's homeroom sold Christmas cards, wrappings and writing paper. This room solicited money and clothing for a needy family at Christmas time. Room 115 sold jelly to meet their expenses and they bought books for their room. Homeroom 229 had a dance in March. In February, the seventh grade sponsored a movie "Green Grass of Wyoming."

HONOR SOCIETY

Annual induction ceremonies of the Societas Honoris Chapter of the National Honor Society were held during an impressive candlelight ceremony conducted by the members. It was held to induct those who were tapped in the spring.

Jean Schneider, president, was master of ceremonies. Those who had parts in the induction were Eileen Wetzen, who represented Character; Ruth Ostrom, who represented Scholarship; Kathy Erb, who represented Leadership; and Margaret Logan, who represented Service.

Chosen from the Senior Class were Beverly

Hazzard, Sarah Farnsworth, Jean Fargo, Virginia Milliron, Phyllis Nordland, Carol Loftus, Kay Rothra, Marjorie Howbridge, Carol Danielson, and David Lange. From the Junior Class: Sandra Sundeen, David Till, Charles Trowbridge, Clint Merley, and Paul Romer were chosen.

Membership in the National Honor Society is a great honor, the highest which can be bestowed upon a student in our school. Candidates are chosen by the faculty on character, scholarship, leadership, and service—the ideals for which the Society stands.

Student Directors

As Mr. Harp foresaw a busy year for the student council, he decided that those juniors on last year's council should remain as members again this year. This increased the number of seniors on the council. The executive committee was composed of those seniors and the officers together with Mr. Harp. The committee planned the business meeting beforehand when Mr. Harp was unable to attend. The officers elected to guide us this year were Paul Romer, President; Gordon Puls, Vice-President; Mary Lawson, Secretary; Marilyn Danielson, Treasurer, and Roy Christy, Sergeant-at-Arms.

This year the student council had two big projects. They sponsored sending a junior from Southwestern to a foreign country for the summer, and they again undertook to bring a student from a foreign country to Southwestern for the school term. These projects necessitated the raising of at least $1,200. To realize this sum, all the homerooms were asked to pledge their contributions. Donations from various community and school organizations were also accepted. A large foreign student fund poster was placed in the school hall, noting the contributions. The student council itself helped to raise the amount through the sale of American Field Service cookbooks and from the profits of the student council store.

All in all, the student council had a very successful year which would not have been possible without the competent leadership of Mr. Harp.

Every effort was made by this staff to make your Centralian a rich treasure-chest of memories of life at Southwestern. The staff sincerely hopes you enjoy reading your Centralian as much as they did preparing it.

To achieve this purpose, we have visited the W.C.A. Hospital, State Mental Hospital at Helmuth, and the Cerebral Palsy Clinic. We have also had several speakers in the different areas of nursing.

The people who have led us so efficiently through this year are Carol Penhollow, President; Roberta Pierce, Vice-President; Marilyn Acquisto, Treasurer; and Sandra Sundeen, Secretary.

In September the first meeting of the Masqueraders was held and the following officers were elected: Pat Davis, President; Gordon Puls, Vice-President; Nancy Eggleston, Treasurer; and June Eliasson, Secretary.

Approximately seventy-five students were enrolled as members of the Masqueraders this year. Out of these seventy-five enrolled members six have qualified for membership in the National Thespian Society.

In October, we presented a mystery play, "Ramshackle Inn," in three acts.

Two Little Theater memberships were purchased for the use of the members of the club. The tickets were used by some of the members and were greatly appreciated.

A comedy play, in one act, was presented at the annual drama festival in Fredonia.

We, in the Dramatic Club, wish to thank our advisor, Mrs. Watson, for all the time and help she has given to our club this year.

VARSITY CHORUS

The major project for the chorus this year, as every year, was the annual operetta. This year Roger and Hammersteins "Oklahoma" was given at two evening performances. This gay, lively production brought satisfaction and pleasure to both participants and audience.

During the Christmas season the Chorus performed four times for various organizations. They did Faure's Requiem which was very beautiful and fitting for the holiday season.

Under the capable leadership of Miss McMillen the Girls "S" Club had another successful year. Officers were: President, Lynne Hough; Secretary, Judy Gardiner; Treasurer, Phyllis Anderson.

Good sportsmanship was stressed through intramural games in basketball and volleyball. Points were given toward letters and those members earning two letters received blazers.

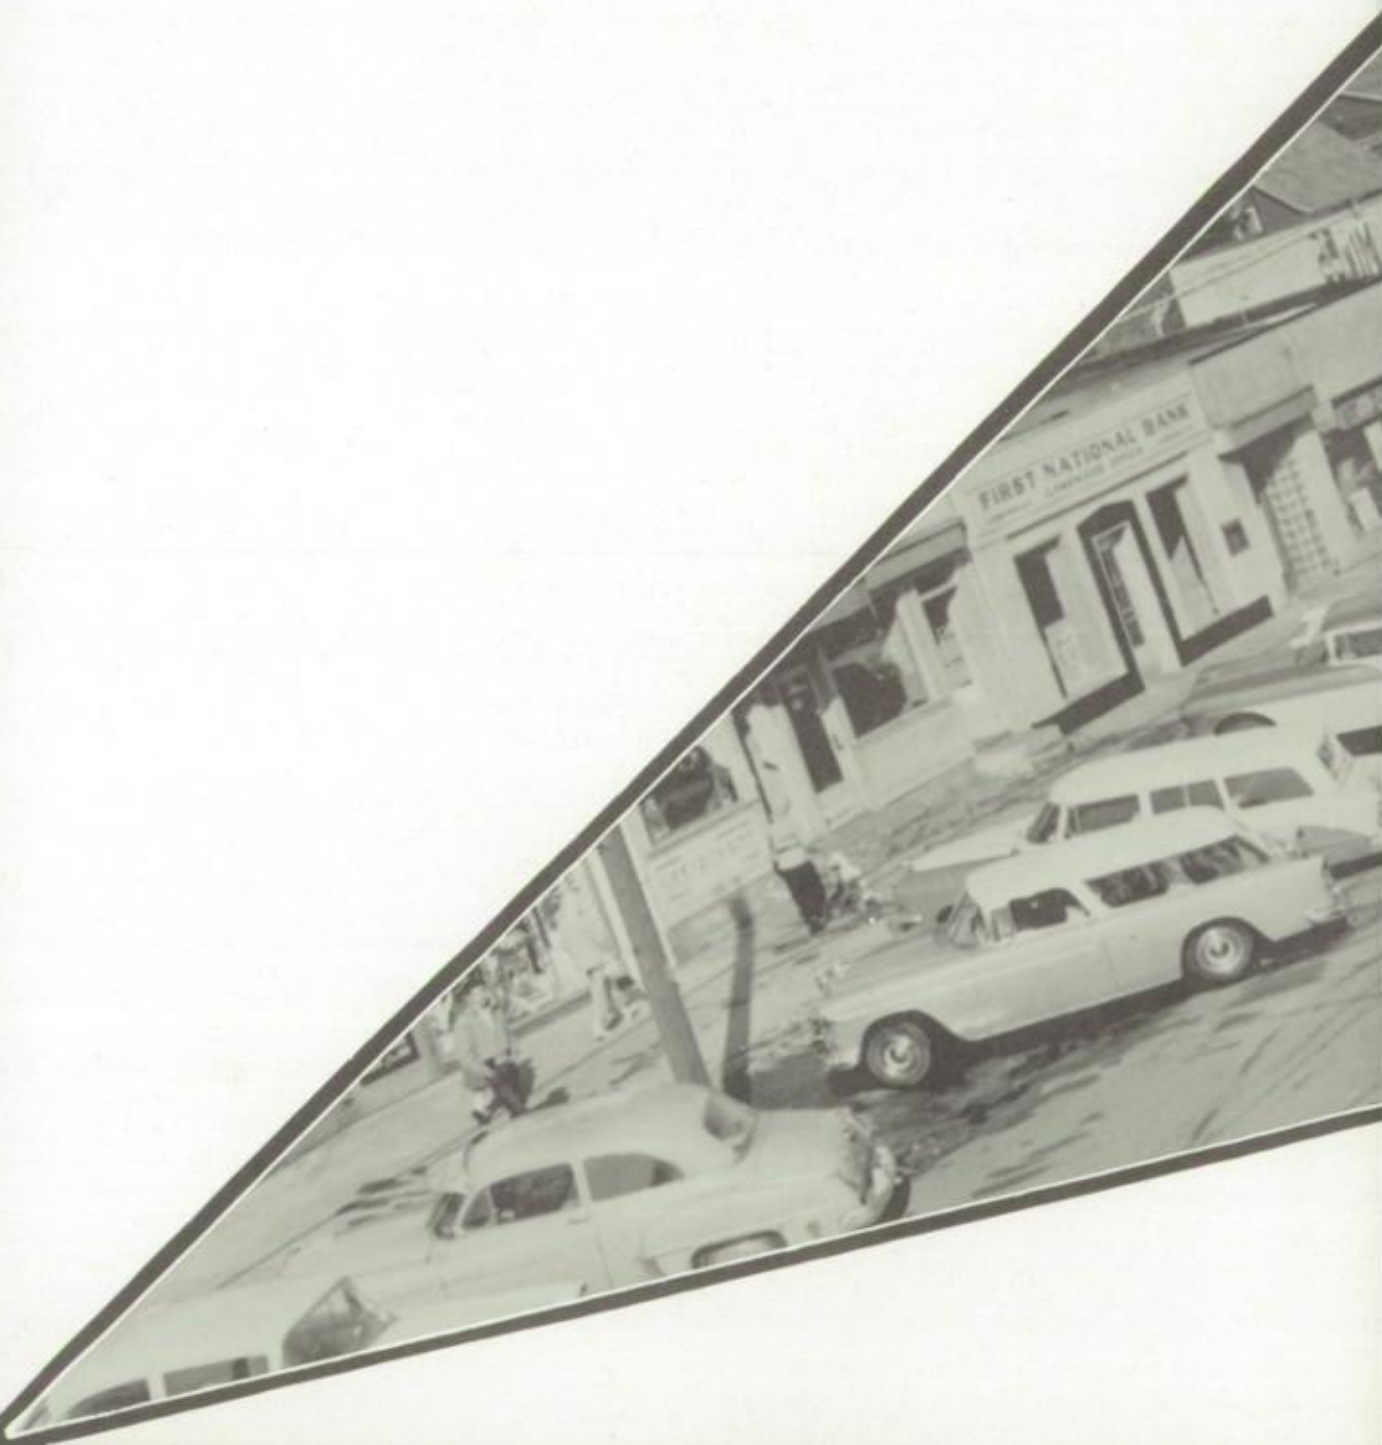

The innercouncil, consisting of members who had earned at least one letter, did an able job of governing the club. A "Farmer's Formal" was held in April to help meet expenses.

Membership in the Boys' "S" Club is limited to those boys who have earned at least one letter in a major sport. Jackets are awarded when a boy wins two letters in one sport or three letters in three different sports.

Money-raising activities have been limited this year, to several successful dances after football and basketball games.

Many thanks to our capable advisor, Mr. Rushin.
